1. A Czech military delegation preceded the government delegates to Moscow in December. The chief members were General Svoboda, Minister of National Defense, Colonel Reicin, Head of the OBZ, General Prochazka, Chief of the Enlightenment Officers' School, and General Dřhac, of the Ministry of National Defense Army Supplies Department. The latter three were required to sign any decree issued by Svoboda which would otherwise have been invalid.
2. The delegation asked for armaments but received only 250 tanks and armored vehicles, and the complete equipment for one parachutist unit (about 1000 men). A request for standardization of armament and equipment was refused by Moscow.
